

Première Vision New York January 2025: Pioneering the Future of Fashion

Première Vision New York, the leading sourcing platform for the North American fashion industry, is excited to unveil its next edition, taking place January 14-15, 2025, at the iconic Tribeca 360° venue. This show will present an inspiring and forward-thinking exploration of materials, trends, and innovations for the Spring/Summer 2026 season, positioning itself as the ultimate destination for creative and sustainable fashion solutions. Experience the Heart of Fashion Innovation: Première Vision New York continues to lead as the premier sourcing destination for American designers, brands, and manufacturers. With its focus on innovation, eco-conscious design, and trend exploration, this January's edition is not to be missed.

A Broader Showcase of International Exhibitors

This January, PV New York will host over 150 international and local exhibitors. Attendees can expect a vibrant mix of fabric producers, accessory creators, leather specialists, print studios, and manufacturers, all offering exclusive insights into upcoming collections. From bold prints and sustainable denim to tech-driven textiles and artisanal craftsmanship, the show caters to every corner of the fashion spectrum. Read more

Sustainability at the Forefront with ‘a better way’

Building on its commitment to eco-responsibility, the January show expands the ‘a better way’ program, showcasing suppliers that meet rigorous standards for sustainability, including product lifecycle transparency, ethical practices, and reduced environmental impact. To make these forward-thinking exhibitors easier to identify, their booths will feature the ‘a better way’ sticker label - a clear marker of their eco-conscious efforts. This initiative ensures visitors can quickly connect with suppliers that align with their sustainability goals, enhancing the sourcing experience and fostering meaningful partnerships. The industry’s trajectory is firmly rooted in a sustainable supply chain, and Première Vision New York is committed to staying ahead of the curve. All ‘a better way’ exhibitors are rigorously selected against strict criteria, guaranteeing that their practices are both innovative and authentic. With this program, PV gives visitors confidence that they are engaging with legitimate leaders in sustainable fashion.

Trend & Color Talks: Unveiling Key Directions

Fashion professionals can look forward to exclusive seminars led by Celine Khawam, PV’s Fashion Consultant. Responding to both our own basic needs and those of our ecosystems, the industry is reevaluating its practices, shifting its perspective and regaining momentum with solutions adapted to changes in consumption, uses, the climate and resources. Khawam will reveal the meaning behind this season’s RE-STORE, RE-FRESH, and RE-SET trends alongside groundbreaking material innovations for the Spring/Summer 2026 collections. These talks are essential for designers and buyers seeking to stay ahead of market shifts and consumer preferences.

Engaging Industry Guest Speakers

Continuing its tradition of thought leadership, PV New York will feature seven expert speakers, addressing topics ranging from AI-driven fashion design to circular economy practices. New to the program is Lesley Vargas, Founder of LSV Consulting, who will explore essential elements of navigating the complexities of costing, minimum order quantities (MOQs), and building strong manufacturing relationships. For the first time ever, PV New York will provide attendees with insight into the world of trims and how to select the best one through ABM Fashion’s presentation on sustainable trims. Returning favorites like Liz Alessi will offer actionable insights into achieving brand sustainability through scalable solutions.
